“Breakthrough” Summary: When Joyce Smith’s adopted son John falls through an icy Missouri lake, all hope seems lost. But as John lies lifeless, Joyce refuses to give up. Her steadfast belief inspires those around her to continue to pray for John’s recovery, even in the face of every case history and scientific prediction.

St. Marys

“The Upside” Summary: Phillip is a wealthy quadriplegic who needs a caretaker to help him with his day-to-day routine in his New York penthouse. He decides to hire Dell, a struggling parolee who’s trying to reconnect with his ex and his young son. Despite coming from two different worlds, an unlikely friendship starts to blossom as Dell and Phillip rediscover the joy of living life to the fullest.

KVSB Spotlight

I’ve loved books for as long as I can remember, but I didn’t start collecting them until middle school when I bought a pair of Sherlock Holmes volumes. Since then, my personal library has blossomed well-past my shelf space!

On Display: Now through Aug. 20th Megan Salfrank's Antique Book Collection

Most recently, we found several books owned by my great-great Aunt Irene, who was a school teacher in Kansas in the 1920s, including old schoolbooks and children’s books. The oldest book in my possession belonged to my great-great-great-great grandfather, James Jenkins, from 1836. It’s fascinating to me to hold a piece of history like that, especially from my own family tree!

My most treasured book is “Little Lord Fauntleroy” from 1916; it was the last book my grandmother gave me before she passed. She was a fellow book-lover and collecting books was something we shared.

Reading and writing has always gone hand-in-hand for me, my writing projects as varied as my reading list. While I dabbled in poetry and journalism as a student, novels are my favorite medium. In March 2018 I officially published my first novella, “Becoming Countess”, under my pen name Shae Mallak.

Not a day goes by when there isn’t a book in my hand and a story in my head.

Honestly, I don’t know how to live any other way.
